Died. In Fowler, 15th inst., Mrs. Rhoda Minnick, in 86th year of her age. [09/15/1876]

Married. In Dekalb, Oct 4th, at the residence of the bride's mother, by Rev. C.M. Booth, Mr. John G. Carr to Miss Cornelia A. Colton, both of Dekalb, N.Y. [10/04/1876]

Married. At the M.E. Parsonage, Oxbow, Oct. 4th, by Rev. J.R. Smith, Herbut E. Yann of Morristown, to Miss Loretta M. Clear of Macomb. [10/04/1876]

Died. In Grinnell, Iowa, Sept 17th, 1876, Willie H., son of G.W. and Amelia Parker, aged 8 mo. 'Darling little Willie sleeping, Beneath the autumn leaves; But he will waken by and by, When Jesus comes in glory, To gather home his sheaves. A priceless treasure God has taken, More precious here than gold, But when thus, he makes us sorrow, He clasps our darling in his arms, And takes it to his fold. A little bud transplanted, To a more genial clime, Where it shall bloom forever, With beauty all untold, Beyond the shores of time.

Died. At his late residence in Dekalb, N.Y., Oct 1st, 1876, after a brief illness, Mr. Ephraim Johnson at the ripe age of 76. The funeral services were held at his recent home on Tuesday A.M. at 11 o'clock, conducted by the Revs.

C.M. Booth and R. Jones. The deceased was born in Franklin Co, Mass. Sept. 22d, 1800. At the age of 20 he embraced Christianity and was baptised into the fellowship of the Baptist Church. When 30 years old he came to Northern New York and settled upon the farm where he lived 46 years previous to his death. In life, appreciated and beloved by all who knew him, in death lamented as a worthy husband and father, an esteemed citizen, and a consistent Christian. To those who glory in the faith once delivered to the saints and who love the peculiar characteristics and distinctive features of Baptist doctrine, the recollection of his life as he led it will ever remain a solid endorsement. His was a life 'known and read of all men.'

Married. In Oxbow, Oct 15th, by Rev. J.R. Smith, Tunis Kipp, of Gouverneur, and Miss Jennett Young of Oxbow. [10/15/1876]

Died. In Antwerp, Oct 11th, of typhoid fever, Napoleon Lavar, in the 28th year of his age. Son-in-law of S.C. Merritt, of Gouverneur. [10/11/1876]

Died. Helmer. In Rossie, on the morning of May 9th, 1876, Francis Abiel, daughter of Mr. Abeil E., and Mrs. Sarah Helmer, aged six months.

Married. In Gouverneur, Jan. 15, by Rev. E.P. Weed, of Adams, A.M. Willis, of Carthage and Miss Ida S. Brown, of Gouverneur. [01/15/1877]

Married. In this town, Jan 24, by Rev W. Parsons, Mr. E. David (Davis?) Mix to Miss Clara L. Hills, both of Gouverneur. (Transcriber's note: these are great grandparents to me, and I believe should be E. Davis Mix, not E. David. Russ Sprague, Kensington, Md. 10/16/1994) [01/24/1877]

Died. In Fullerville, on Friday, Feb. 2d, Miss Effie Davidson, daughter of Freeman H. and Lucy A. Davidson, in the 19th year of her age. Miss Effie Davidson, who departed this life on Friday last, and whose Funeral services occurred on Sunday, with the Rev. Mr. Collins of Depouville, officiating, should receive a public tribute to her excellence of character as a daughter, a sister, and a school mate; her purity of mind and daily life exerted that unobtrusive influence which won for her a place among the good women who hold the first rank in the defence of social virtue, as such she should be honored with tender and loving memory. A great sufferer, yet a patient endurer; uttering no complaint through months of fearful pain; full of thankfulness for every word of sympathy and every effort to lessen her distress; she presented an example of fortitude well worthy of admiration, founded as it was upon the perfect trust in the wisdom and goodness of God. Her attachment to father, mother, sisters, and brothers, and all her relatives and friends, was endearing and strong, and excited a fervent desire to remain with them, yet in the consciousness that this could not be, she was entirely submissive to the Divine will, and without a murmur awaited the dread fiat (?) in the cheerful confidence that she would meet her dear relatives and friends at the appointed time in the Spirit Land, 'over the river.' One that knew her well and intimately, offers this tribute to her memory in earnest sincerity and regard. [02/02/1877]

Died. In Hermon, Feb 5, Otis Earle, aged 45 years. [02/05/1877]

At Monroe City, Mo., Jan 17, 1877, Mr. Wm. Ashley, in the 85th year of his age. Again it becomes us to mourn the loss of one of Gouverneur's old and much esteemed citizens. Mr. Wm. Ashley, perhaps better known as Deacon Ashley, (illegible) in the full (illegible) Christian faith. Mr. Ashley came west about 20 years since, and came to this place 11 years (illegible).

Died. At Lisbon Center, July 1, Arzeena A., aged 9 years and 5 months; also, July 20, Zella E., aged 11 years and 7 months; also July 22, Carrie J., aged 2 years and 10 months, all of diphtheria, daughters of John W. and Hannah Thompson, of said place. [07/01/1876]

Died. At Little York, August 15, Mr. Simeon Hazelton, aged 94 years. He was born in Upton, Mass., was married in Putney, Vt., and lived in St. Lawrence county 64 years. He has seven children (illegible) grandchildren, and 28 great-grandchildren, most of whom were present at his funeral. [08/15/1877][

Died. (transcriber's note, there were two obituararies for Amos Hildreth in close proximity on the same page (19) of the scrapbook). First follows: At his residence at "Rock Island," November 13th, Amos Hildreth, aged 88 years. Mr. Hildreth was born in Chesterfield, New Hampshire. In 1787 he moved to Herkimer with his parents. He was a soldier of the War of 1812, was married in 1819, and moved to St. Lawrence County, crossed the river in a boat, purchased 1,040 acres of land on the island near Hailesboro, and cut the first tree for clearing. About seven years ago he moved to Gouverneur. Second obituary follows: Died. Hildreth. In Gouverneur, on the 13th inst, Amos Hildreth, in the eighty-eighth year of his age. Mr. Hildreth was born in Chesterfield, N.H., in 1789, and came from Herkimer county to St. Lawrence in the year 1819. He settled in what is now Hailesborough. He made the first clearing for a building that was made in Hailesborough, and also helped to cut the timber from what is now Main street, Gouverneur. Mr. Hildreth was a soldier in the war of 1812, and his many reminiscences of skirmishes between Sacketts Harbor and Ogdensburg were indeed interesting. He moved from Hailesborough to Gouverneur about seven years ago. His life has been a long and useful one, and he was remarkable for his nobleness of manner and quietness of disposition, as well as for his constitution, never having had any sickness until the spell which resulted in his death. He leaves a family of five children, and numerous grandchildren, most of whom are now citizens of Gouverneur. [11/13/1876]

Died. Burdell. In Charleston, S.C., June 30, 1876, of typhoid fever, Helen McFalls Burdell, wife of T. Street Burdell, aged forty years and twenty-eight days. The subject of this memoir combined in beautiful symmetry the gentler virtues which win our love, and those noble and heroic qualities which dignify the character of woman and challenge our admiration. When a devoted husband and father was shorn of his manly strength by an incurable and wasting disease, the heroism, fortitude and self reliance of the noble wife and mother sprang from the bosom of gentleness and love to meet the emergency. Qualified by education and experience for the duties of teaching, she resolved to undertake the support of her family. With that natural pride and independence of character which shrinks instinctively from becoming a beneficiary upon the bounty of others, she bravely ventured to bear her heavy burden alone. Her highest earthly aspiration was to see her children educated according to her lofty ideal of Christian manhood. To this task she consecrated herself with an iron will and entire self-abnegation. It was evident to all that she had laid herself upon the altar of sacrifice, and that every day was adding fuel to the flames that consumed her precious life. When the raging fever seized upon her prostrate frame, it found her vital forces too far spent to resist the assaults of disease, or to furnish a hopeful basis for medical skill. Calmly and bravely she yielded to the will of Heaven, committing herself and her family into the strong and loving impress of her Saviour. She lived long enough to impress her noble character upon her sons, (the only daughter is taken while we write), and to develop a noble type of womanhood. While we recall her stately form, her countenance of more than ordinary beauty beaming with intelligence and cheerfulness, we shall cherish a lively remembrance of her example of Christian fortitude and sacrifice, rebuking our discontent and selfishness, and stimulating us to nobler and better lives.

Died. At the residence of his son-in-law, in Ontario, Wayne Co., N.Y., of consumption, Aug 4th, Deacon Russell Johnson, aged 74 years. Also, from the same page (19) of the scrapbook: Johnson. At the residences of his son, in Ontario, Wayne County, N.Y., Aug 5th, 1876, of Consumption, Deacon Russell Johnson, aged seventy-four years. The subject of the above notice was born in Coleraine, Mass., and was the youngest son of Lieut. Isaac Johnson. At the age of twenty he professed religion, and united with the Baptist church in Coleraine. (illegible) he was married to Miss Phebe Eddy, and (illegible) removed to Richville, where he spent the later part of his life. He was one of the first members of the Baptist church in Richville, which was organized in June 1834, and was there ordained Deacon in 1837. In this place he buried his wife, and was again married to Miss Abigail Van Duzee of Gouverneur. For a few years past he resided with his son in Ontario, N.Y. His sickness was protracted and his sufferings though severe were borne with resignation. He frequently expressed a desire to go home. Three of his children have gone before, five yet survive to mourn his loss. Two years since he followed his companion to the grave. One brother and sister remain of a family of eight. He was an esteemed citizen, warm friend, beloved brother, and a faithful laborer in the vineyard of the Lord. We mourn his loss, yet not as those without hope. 'Rest, dear brother, pain is o'er, Rest on the celestial shore; Yet a little while we linger, Then we'll meet to part no more.'

Married. Clark-Carr. At the residence of Bardine Clark, Gouverneur, Oct 24th, by Rev. A.I. Smith, Mr. Francis B. Clark, of Gouverneur and Miss Emogene J. Carr, of Dekalb, N.Y. [10/24/1876]

[12/17/1876]

Died. Rolph. In Fowler, January 7th, 1877, Mr. Stephen Rolph, in the forty-third year of his age.

Died. In this village, May 30th, of Neuralgia, Mrs. Polly C. Thompson, in her 84th year. Although several months have elapsed since the death of this good sister we can not forbear giving a few words in testimony of a life so singularly pure and good in all its details. Her life was truly one of suffering, being for many years afflicted with that terrible disease known in the olden times as 'ticdoleroux', and lately as neuralgia. For hours her sufferings were so intense as to call forth the most excruciating cries of pain. But never one murmur was heard from her lips, her only reply as friends anxious to ease her pain tried to sympathise with her, was 'I deserve it all.' Her loving trust in Jesus, her intense longing to depart and be with Him; and her pure and childlike faith in the promises contained in holy writ were characteristic of a life like hers. 'To her death had no sting, as she often exclaimed in broken accents between the intervals of pain 'Oh death, where is thy sting.' Her mind was a storehouse where had been laid away in hours of health so many precious passages of scripture, and so many portions of hymns which were peculiarly suited to her intense sufferings. On the last Sabbath of her consciousness when speaking to her daughter of the day she repeated these beautiful lines: 'Sweet is the day of sacred rest, No mortal cares shall seize my breast; Oh may my harp in tune be found, Like David's harp of solemn sound. Life to her was real and earnest and her early years were spent in efforts to do good to those about her both spiritually and temporarily. For 61 years she was a professed follower of Christ and a member of the Congregational church. Her efforts united with those of her husband Dea. Thompson in the Sabbath School cause in the early years of their married life were productive of much good. They having established one of the first Sabbath schools in Jefferson County. The towns of Champion and Wilna have witnessed results of the labors of these two faithful servants of the Lord who have both gone home to Glory. She was born Feb. 8, 1793, in Hartford, Washington Co., N.Y. In Nov. 1817, she was married to William Thompson. Three sons and one daughter were the results of their union. In 1864, as the infirmities of age came creeping on, this aged couple came to reside in Gouverneur with their daughter, Mrs. Chas. Heald, where she found many warm friends who will long cherish as a previous legacy the hours of friendly intercourse with her and the words of wisdom which fell from her lips. Her consistent life and her triumphant death are pleasant to remember, and those who loved to hold sweet communion with her when her sufferings would permit can only find comfort in the thought that for her is laid up a crown of glory which will grow brighter and brighter until its glory is lost in the everlasting day.

Died. Parks. On Saturday, June 2d, at the residence of his father, Charlie N.

Parks, aged fourteen years. [06/02/1877]

Died. Picket. On Sunday the 10th inst., Anna Lee, daughter of Horace Picket, formerly of Edwards, N.Y., aged ten months. It was but a few weeks since Mr. Picket and his wife, a daughter of Daniel Peck, Esq., of Gouverneur, left their adopted home in Purgus Falls, Minn., and with their little darling child, the idle of their hearts, came on a visit to relatives and friends in this county. Having visited friends in Edwards, where Mr. P. was engaged in the mercantile business for several years, his business affairs demanding his attention, the mother was left with her baby to enjoy her visit. But the tender little one was shorn from them and has gone home to dwell on the bright shining shores of joy, free from suffering. [05/10/1877]

Married. In Gouverneur, Nov. 6th, by Rev. C.W. Parsons, Mr. Joseph George to Miss Cornelia A. Graves, both of Gouverneur. [11/06/1877]

Died. In Watertown, Nov. 15th, Hon. Edwin Dodge, aged 75 years. Prayers at the residence of John Lansing, 5 Clinton St., Watertown, this Friday afternoon at 4:10 o'clock. Funeral services from the homestead, Gouverneur, on Saturday at 2 P.M. [11/15/1877]

Died. In this village, Friday morning, 16th, Jas. R. Bignall, aged 76 years. [05/16/1876]

Died. In Gouverneur, Nov 4th, Mary Jane, wife of Darius Carpenter, aged 33 years. [11/04/1877]

Died. In Richville, N.Y., 12 o'clock, Friday night, Nov. 2, 1877, at Mr. Alexander Clark's (his son-in-law's), Deacon David Brown, aged 90 years, 5 months, and 15 days. He was a native of New Hampshire and had been a resident in Richville some 30 years. Owing to extreme deafness his later years were lived comparatively alone, yet not alone, for he walked with God. In his 22nd or 23rd year he embraced Christianity and united with the Baptist Church in which he served as Deacon. He has written his own epitaph, and surviving friends may read it with profit. Mature in years, rich in faith, he came down to the evening of life's pilgrimage calmly and grandly, as a shock of corn fully ripe for the harvest. His funeral was largely attended, Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, following, showing the warm place he had in the hearts of his many friends. Sermon by Rev. C.M. Booth from words selected by the Deacon in his life time, 'Weep not for me but weep for yourselves, and for your children,' Luke 23d, 28. By this, though dead, he yet speaks to surviving kindred.

Married. In Somerville, Oct. 29th, by H.R. Albro, J.P., Mr. Joseph Labardee to Miss Rosa Laflore, both of Gouverneur. [10/29/1877]

Died. At Morristown, October 16th, Mrs. Philinda Day, in the 81st year of her age.

Died. At Lisbon Centre, Oct 22, 1877, Jennie S., daughter of John R. and Lottie M. Clark, aged 7 years, 4 months and 13 days.

Died. In Macomb, October 7, 1877, Mrs. Agnes Rutherford, aged 71 years and 5 months.

Died. Bill. At Ogdensburg, on the 14th of April, 1876, Mrs. James R. Bill, aged thirty-one years. The lady mentioned in the above paragraph came with her husband to this city about two years since. Of beautiful appearance, of due accomplishments and a frank hearty way, she in this short time had won a place in many hearts. It is doubtful if any lady in so short a time had won so many friends. In the early winter they commenced preparations for house keeping, and after having just become settled, her husband was called to the death bed of his mother. Leaving his wife on Monday morning in the best of health, he returned on Saturday noon to find her a corpse. Mrs. Bill was taken on Thursday evening with a slight illness at a neighbor's house but soon after, feeling better, she went to her own house, prepared for bed, and went to sleep from which she never fully awakened. Kind friends and skillful physicians were with her during the night, but no love, no care, could save her and she passed away about half past six o'clock on Friday morning. As soon as possible telegrams were despatched to her husband of her dangerous condition. He telegraphed back 'Is my wife alive?'. Oh, the suspense and suffering of that fond husband as he waited for the fatal answer, 'Your wife died this morning.' A long, long journey and such a meeting was before him. So utterly changed from his former expectations. Reader! you may imagine it, but you will never know anything about it until it is real to you. The promising future, the sudden death and the absence of her husband are of the many distressing circumstances connected with the death of this estimable lady. The news sent a thrill through the community. It did not seem possible that she whom they saw at the openings Thursdays, whom they talked and laughed with, so full of enjoyment, should be in the arms of death the next morning. It was too true. After beautiful flowers had been strewn over her coffin by loving hands, after the man of God had spoken of the departed sister's virtues and given all the comfort in his power to wounded hearts, she was borne by sad relatives to her old home in Massachusetts to friends and relatives who knew her longer and loved her better - there to be laid by the side of a dear mother but just gone before, who in her last illness received the care of a loving, Christian daughter.

Died. In Gouverneur, on the evening of the 17th inst., Gustavus N., son of Norman and Julia A. Mosher, in the fifth year of his age. [04/17/1876]

Died. Johnson. In Gouverneur, on the evening of the 14th inst., Mrs. Olive M., wife of Chas. B. Johnson, Esq., in the fifty-fourth year of her age. [04/14/1876]

Died. Hardie. In Macomb, Thursday, April 13th, at eleven o'clock, A.M., Mrs. Jennet Hardie, relict of the late Wm. Hardie, aged eighty-nine years. She was born in Perth, Roxburgh county, Scotland, April 11th, 1787. Was married to William Hardie, who died in Scotland, in Sept. 1855. In the year following her husband's death, she took a farewell leave of her friends and sailed for America, and while the national guns were joyously commemorating the remembrance of July 4th, 1776, the vessel in which she was a passenger sailed into New York harbor. Since her arrival in America she has spent the principal part of the time with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Robinson, in Macomb, occasionally stopping for weeks at a time at her son's Mr. James Hardie, of Gouverneur. Her son George Hardie, Esq., of Waukegan, Illinois, arrived a few hours too late to see her in life. At the beginning of winter she began to show signs of feebleness and has since gradually continued to fail. She was confined to her bed the principal part of the time for several weeks preceding her death. As death drew near she many times would say, 'The Lord's will be done. I am ready.' And thus she died giving evidence to the last that Jesus was her all sufficient Saviour and would sustain her in the trying hour of need. She died in peace- in the full assurance of a glowing immortality beyond the grave. Not a shadow nor a doubt dimmed her bright mission of the future world. The funeral services were held at the residence of Wm. Robinson, Saturday, April 15th, at 10:00 A.M. Sermon delivered by the Rev. A. Adair, of OxBow from Revelations, 11th Chap. 13th Verse. His words were fitting and appropriately spoken, warning us well of our close proximity to death, the uncertainty of life and the great need of a necessary preparation. [04/13/1876]

Died. Cowen. In the town of Utica, Seward county, Neb., Dec 9th, 1875, Mary, daughter of John and Ruaina Cowen, aged twenty nine years, one month, and twenty-five days. Seven years ago the family moved west from the town of Macomb, stopping for some time in Michigan but finally moving to Nebraska where they (illegible) and have since resided. Through the merciful providence of God (illegible) has been called home, away from the (illegible) of earth and (as her dying sentiment expressed) to the happier regions of the blest. She died with the Christian's hope and her last words were thanksgiving and praise.

Died. In Gouverneur, April 23d, 1876, Mrs. Ermina Sackett Parker. The deceased was born in Washington County, this State, in 1796, and was at her death seventy-nine years of age. She came to this section of the state early in life as a teacher, became the wife of the late James Parker in 1819, with whom she lived fifty-six years, he preceding her to the upper home by a little more than one year, and as such wife became the mother of twelve children, eight of whom are still living. One year before her marriage, Mrs. Parker became a member of the Presbyterian Church in this place, in which communion she continued faithful until her death and was one of that congregation of worshipers the last Sabbath she spent on earth. A devoted, Godly and true mother in Isreal, loving and beloved, she has gone to her rest. Sweet and precious the memories of such mothers in the home and in the church. Christ says of such, 'Come ye blessed of My Father, inherit the rest prepared for you.'

Sudden Death. The death of Mr. Garrison, of Hailesborough, on Sunday night the 26th was very sudden and the circumstances attending it strange indeed. Sunday P.M. he was taken with a piercing pain in his stomach and at nine o'clock Dr. Maclean was summoned. Thirty minutes later the Dr. was at his bedside and Mr. Garrison was apparently well as ever, the pain having subsided. In a jocose way, the old gentleman remarked to the doctor that his visit was a fruitless one; the doctor replied that he might not be troubled any more and still he was very liable to be, and commenced preparing him some medicine. A moment later he turned to Mr. Garrison, and beheld him a corpse! [04/26/1876]

In Memorium. Departed for the home of the angels, on Sunday, Feb. 25th, 1877, Mrs. Nancy Smith, in the seventy-ninth year of her age. Services were held on the following Wednesday, at the residence of her son, L.N. Smith, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Townly, pastor of the Baptist church, Gouverneur. The deceased was born in Washington county, Oct 25th, 1798. She came to Gouverneur with her parents in March, 1806. United with the Baptist church in 1816. She was an exemplary Christian and a good mother. Deceased was the last of the first settlers of Gouverneur. She often expressed a desire to cross the Jordan of death and be with the husband of her youth, and her children (a son and a daughter) who had gone before her. Her wish was that she might pass away on the Sabbath day.

Died. The following lines are sacredly inscribed to the memory of Andrew Fleming, who died Saturday morning, Nov. 24th, 1877. Written by his old schoolmate, Geo. H. Robinson: On the better shore he lingers, 'Neath the golden palm tree's shade, Where all beatific visions, Swell the tide of heavenly grace. No more sorrows, no more trials, In that blessed land of light, all is pure, untainted, Holy, Joy dispels the hour of night. There amidst the joys of Heaven, With his Savior on the Throne, Sings the blessed Holy Anthems, Praising God forever more. God in mercy still beholds us, All to Him who will make known, How they suffer sinful anguish, Lovingly he bids them come. I have grace and mercy plenty, Faith and love I'll freely give, Come up higher - Jesus calls you, Come, Oh sinner come and live. Oh! Accept this proffered mercy, Freely offered to you all; Join the band to Heaven marching, Grasp the standard lest you fall. Macomb, Jan 21st, 1878

Died. Hazelton. At Walnut Ridge, Lawrence county, Arkansas, July 12, Simeon Hazelton aged 67 years. The deceased was the third son of the late Simeon Hazleton of Fowler. He removed from that town to Cooperville, Mich., in 1863 and engaged in the gardening business there for many years where he was well known and esteemed. After the death of his wife, in 1878, his health and business began to decline, and last spring he migrated to Arkansas, where he fondly hoped to find a better country. His hope was realized, for he died in the belief that he should live in a nobler and far more perfect form of existence. His old friends in this part remember him as a thoroughly upright and truly honest man - a dutiful son, a loving father, and a conscientious friend. He filled all the offices of life in an honorable and exemplary manner. [07/12/1878]

Died. Cline. In Massena, Sept. 26, 1879, George A. Cline, son of G. and R. Cline, aged 7 years, 7 months. April 29th, Georgie got burned by tipping over a kettle of hot sugar. He was burned badly; we thought he couldn't live two days but he was a poor little sufferer and only the one who hears the midnight plaint of those who cry to Him for relief can tell how much he suffered. Everything that parents could do was done; night and day they watched him with anxious care. Never can one reflection be cast upon his parents. Amid pain, sorrow and tears they watched and tended him till Death set its cold seal on his brow and numbered him with the sleeping dead. Sad it will be, never to hear little Georgie's sweet voice again in the family circle, but may the grace of God be sufficient for the afflicted family. Until the great life giver speaks life to the dead, peace be to the little sleeper, and during all these years that eye which never sleeps will watch his resting place. Entombed in earth thy precious form is sleeping. While kindred hearts, who know thy worth, in anguish deep are weeping.

In Memoria: Frank J. Jones. In the recent death of Frank J. Jones, the second son of Rev. Reuben Jones, of Richville, N.Y., both the family and the community received a severe shock, and it seems proper that a few facts appear in defense of this poor unfortunate victim, who now fills an untimely grave because of a combination of seductive influences that poisoned his young life, which influences are still exerting a deadly power over the youth whose blood will be required at the hands of others. Deceased was born in Woodville, N.Y., Apr. 22, 1859, died June 6th, 1878, aged 19 years, 1 mo. and 14 days. His death occurred on his father's 70th birthday. Frankie (as he was familiarly called) was a noble hearted young man, kind and obliging, and in families where he had been employed was especially beloved because of his uniform kindness to children. He scarcely ever missed going to church and Sunday school, after he was old enough, until within the past two or three years. He was a stranger to the many bad practices that so often overtake young men, until the contaminating influences of the recent past. His parents, and especially his mother, had many times cautioned him against the dangers of evil associations and had received from him promises of amendment, but he was of that peculiar temperament, easily influenced by his surroundings. To show the better element of his nature, and as a revelation of his estimate of sin, he told one of his intimate associates only a little time previous to his death: "If I thought I had got to continue in this way I would rather be dead than alive." His nature was so yielding he could not say "No!" and so he has gone down to death thus early, kind hearted, with noble impulses and generous feelings; far more pure than his surviving enemies who allured him into sin by the treachery and deceit of their so-called legitimate business. The last Sunday he was at home his mother talked with him on religious subjects and expressed to him her impression that there was soon to be a change in their family. Frankie then expressed himself substantially as follows: "Mother, when I am a Christian I shall live different from some who profess religion; I know there is a reality in religion," and showed his appreciation of his mother's advice by kissing her as he left. His mother had been deeply exercised with fearful forebodings of evil and painful conjectures that some mishap would come to her "dear Frankie" and that heart which has been full, is now overflowing with indescribable sorrow. She wishes to say to unsuspecting mothers and tempted youth, "Stop, STOP, before you too are drawn into the terrible vortex which has engulfed my son." And now young men, Frankie's comrades, remember how this young life went out - profit by his mistakes, and do not forget that evil communications corrupt good manners "therefore, when sinners entice thee consent thou not." Died. Gleason. In East Pitcairn, September 12, 1878, Mary, wife of E.W. Gleason. The deceased was born in Herkimer County, March 26th, 1834. In childhood her parents, Benjamin and Barbara (Whitford) Hall, removed to East Pitcairn, being among the pioneers of the town. At the age of 17 she was married to E.W. Gleason. As a wife and a mother she was tender and faithful; industry, order and economy filled her house with comfort; she was amiable, cheerful and social, and loved to show hospitality. A little over two years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Gleason celebrated their silver wedding. The life was bright and hopeful; children and friends rejoiced with them and anticipated for them a long and fair future. But alas! all these prospects are darkened; all these hopes disappointed. For more than a year she suffered with a painful and lingering disease, patiently and hopefully; but when hope departed she resigned her will to God, fully supported by her faith in Christ professed in her younger years. During her long illness neighbors and friends gave the most kind and continuous sympathy and attention by her sick bed, which she gratefully received, and in their memory she will be long and kindly cherished. To her family, the loss is irreparable - to them the memory of her loving, useful life and peaceful death will be most precious.
